

CDO/ CPO

Data and Transparency Panel

FACTS

Act 912 of 2017 created the positions of chief data officer (CDO) and chief privacy officer (CPO) within the Department of Information Systems.

This legislation also created a Data and Transparency Panel in which the CDO serves as chairman.

Benefits of a Chief Data Officer

Data is a strategic asset of the state. The CDO collaborates to align business and technology to achieve a common vision for data strategies, to drive digital transformation and to realize business goals.

Benefits of a Chief Privacy Officer

Business is driven by data. The CPO ensures the responsible handling of sensitive state and private citizen data and ensures adherence to regulations and transparent practices.

Role of the Data & Transparency Panel

- Perform a feasibility and cost study for a statewide data warehouse program
- Evaluate and identify data to be included in a statewide data warehouse
- Determine & recommend procedures for the implementation of a statewide data warehouse
- Oversee a statewide data warehouse program implemented in the state
- Evaluate & identify data that may be provided to the public in accordance with data standards & specifications
