

SUPPLEMENTAL DOCUMENTATION FOR CONTRACTS

Four additional documents are commonly required for many procurement contracts. The requirement of these forms depends upon:

- The commodity or service being purchased.
- The dollar amount of the resultant contract.

If a resultant contract will require any of these documents, it should be so stated in the solicitation (or for purchases not requiring a solicitation, communicated to the prospective contractor by email), and the completed forms must be received by the State from the anticipated contractor prior to issuing an award.

Most contractors submit the documents with their bid submission.

For auditing purposes, a signed copy of the applicable documents must be retained in the comprehensive procurement record.

For a printable a copy of the above table, go to the job aid on the OSP website: Required Supplemental Documentation for Contracts.

When you use the solicitation templates, these required documents are addressed in the template language and the necessary forms are posted with the solicitation. When you make a purchase without using the templates, such as in a comparison-shopping purchase, you must take the extra step of providing the documents to the apparent successful contractor to complete and return to you.

The forms are on the OSP website. Go to the AGENCIES category, then to the Forms and Reporting page. The links are under the Solicitation Templates section.

REMINDER

The supplemental documents are required only for procurement contracts.

Executing a purchase by means of a PO constitutes a procurement contract, so the documentation is required.

Making a purchase with a P-card does not constitute a procurement contract; therefore, purchasing with a P-Card does not require the buyer to obtain the supplemental documents.
